Imagine being inside a bright, cheery classroom, full, with industrious students and a smiling teacher. Is this what you picture when you think of school? Probably not; I know most students despise school. However, I like school. The things I like most about it are the fact that I can see my friends, be in fun classes with nice teachers, and still get an education.

When I come to school, the thing I look forward to the most is that I can be with my friends. I don't usually get to see most of them outside of school, so it's nice to spend time with them. The teachers normally let us chat a little during class, and, of course, we have a blast in lunch talking about everything!

Another reason I enjoy school is because of how fun the classes can be. For example, in science class, we're always doing experiments! Last semester we were learning about electricity and our teacher let us discover how to get ourselves shocked from static.

electricity. It was so fun!

Finally, and most importantly, my last reason for liking school is that I always seem to get a great education. It amazes me that I can have so much fun, but still learn so much.

In conclusion, I believe school is a great place for learning and having a good time. Without school, you would see your friends as much, have fun in classes, or even learn anything new. When I'm at school, I'm always in a good mood because there are so many positive things about it. Did you feel this way about school when you were there?
